SCHOOL REPORT.

In presenting to the district a written report your committee do not expect to cover any new ground, or to offer any suggestions that have not been offered in the past. Our schools are needing just as efficient care and supervision as heretofore. The recent changes in the school laws have somewhat changed the status of our schools, requiring careful compliance on the part of district officers, teachers, parents and pupils, involving a duty on the part of every individual to learn what our laws now require. We do not believe it good policy to antagonize or ignore the laws of the State in regard to the conduct of our schools, but rather to give a ready acquiescence to them.

Your committee endeavored to place in charge of our schools those teachers who were best fitted and qualified for the places assigned. In most instances the results have justified the endeavor.

It must be borne in mind that the teacher's position is an embarrassing one at the best. He or she has to act oftentimes on imperfect knowledge, obtained under difficult circumstances, by an unwillingness of the pupils to state all the facts, and then, perhaps, to be judged by the parents through misrepresentations. Parents should put themselves in direct communication with the teacher before drawing hasty conclusions, and thus get at the true state of the case.

A good school is dependent on at least three essentials—a wise supervision, a just and efficient administration, and a ready compliance with the requirements. These all go hand in hand, and where they are manifested, a good school is the result, and where they are wanting, the results are unsatisfactory.

One of the chief aims should be to teach the pupils to think for themselves, and that correctly, and thus to acquire a spirit or self-reliance. There is often a desire on the part of pupils to get ahead in their text-books faster than their knowledge and understanding of the principles will warrant, and this desire is too often encouraged by the parents and teacher.

The increased appropriation of last year has given an increase in the number of weeks schooling, so that there have been in all twenty-four weeks during the year. Perhaps, taking our situation and the weather and traveling into account, it is as much as is beneficial and profitable for our younger scholars. Much is lost by irregular attendance. Parents are generally responsible for this, and it behooves them to see that their children are punctual and constant in their attendance, not only for the immediate benefits derived, but for the habits inculcated.

We as well as our children are living for future generations, and the character of our government in the future and the perpetuity of our republican institutions depends on the principles and training of the coming generation.

Teachers are not always alive to the duties and responsibilities of their position, and a suggestion or two to them here may not be amiss. And first, a thorough preparation for their work is necessary, and a thorough understanding and familiarity with what they are teaching daily is essential. We have often urged our teachers to fully and thoroughly prepare themselves for their day's work before entering the schoolroom for the day. A free interchange of ideas and methods of teaching among teachers would add increased energy and efficiency to their work.

Some of our schools are very small and it is a question of great importance, what is the best method of treating them. This has been a question with your School Board which has caused as much anxiety as any question which has presented itself to them. There are many things to be considered in determining the best course to take concerning them, and your School Board earnestly desire the co-operation of all in determining the best course of dealing with them.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Deerfield, Feb. 16, 1898.
